Athletes Serving Athletes (ASA) Named an Official Charity Partner of CFG Community Bank

Partnership aims to support athletes living with disabilities to compete with help of able-bodied “WingMen”

BALTIMORE, Date TBD – CFG Community Bank and Athletes Serving Athletes (ASA) announced today that ASA will be an “Official Charity Partner.” CFG Community Bank is a full service bank headquartered in Baltimore with branches located in Annapolis, Fell’s Point, and Lutherville. ASA, a Timonium non-profit that pairs children, teens and adults living with disabilities with able-bodied athletes to empower them to compete in mainstream running and triathlon events.

In the newly formed partnership, CFG Community Bank will greatly empower ASA to further its mission of inspiring athletes with disabilities, and the greater community at large, to live happier and healthier lifestyles through their WingMan program.

“There are so many athletes who can benefit from the programs that ASA provides. We are proud to be able to provide them with training programs and participation in mainstream running and triathlon events at no cost to their families,” said founder and ASA Executive Director Dave Slomkowski. “The look on their faces when they cross the finish is priceless. Our athletes are truly an inspiration to us all. Having partners such as CFG Community Bank helps us support our athletes as well as spread the ASA mission. We are thrilled to be named an official charity partner of CFG Community Bank.

“We are proud to partner with such a wonderful organization and want to recognize Bill Wiedel, our CFO, for his service on ASA’s board of directors,” said Mark Keidel, CFG Community Bank President and CEO. “ASA’s mission is to make sure everyone can participate no matter what challenges may arise. It is our hope that this new partnership will help promote even greater participation in all these athletic endeavors and that race directors and event promoters will agree.”
